LA1. Kindergarten Class Art: Potato-stamped Watercolor on Canvas

This item has a Halloween Hoedown bid on it at $150

Potato-stamped tissue and watercolor on canvas. Kindergarten students put their stamping abilities to work, using a variety of materials from potatoes, pen caps, and kitchen utensils, to stamp tempera paint patterns onto tissue paper. Children stamped to their hearts content, creating mini masterpieces which were then mod podged onto stretched canvas and accented with blue watercolor pieces. Please see [Hillsfestlive.com/Class Art](https://Hillsfestlive.com/Class Art) for a sneak peak at the class artwork.

Restrictions: None

Value: Priceless

Donors: Kindergarten classes and Lisa Dutton

LA2. You're the Ultimate Insider: Parking Spot at School

Back by popular demand: Your very own reserved parking spot in the school lot, starting the Monday after Hillsfest and lasting until the day before next year's auction. Think how much less stressful your daily routine will be, and how easy it will be to attend school events, knowing that you can park right across from the front office. Thank you, Mrs. Sleet, for generously agreeing to continue this tradition.

LA6. 3rd Grade Class Art: Art is for Everyone

This item has a Halloween Hoedown bid on it at $200

This project introduced the Third graders to Keith Haring, a contemporary artist. Following Haring's iconic pop art figure style, each child was traced in their own movement pose: dance poses, sports poses, and everything in between. Their poses were then shrunk down and arranged on canvas. The children then drew around their shape and investigated using patterns and line. This striking piece will be a pop art favorite for years to come!
